

COLD, FAMILIES AND FLOODS SWELL HUGE DEATH TOLL IN EARTHQUAKE DISTRICT

OBSTRUCTED ROADS PREVENT TRANSPORTATION OF FOOD TO DESTITUTE THOUSANDS.

SUFFERING IS INTENSE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rome, Jan. 15.—Famine and intense cold are adding to the sufferings of the earthquake victims and slowly increasing the already huge death toll. Food there is in plenty, but its transportation to many of the towns affected is all but impossible because of obstructed roads.

Rescue work is now going ahead feverishly for each hour of delay means death by starvation or exhaustion of buried victims. From town after town in the stricken section come reports of excavation of ruins that was too late to save lives.

Smaller Towns Suffer.
Attention generally is turning from Avezzano, the center of the disturbance and the greatest sufferer, to other and smaller towns, where an almost equally large percentage of the population was destroyed. In only one case, so far—that of Soriano—do late reports show that the effects of the quake were less disastrous than had been feared. Only 350 of Soriano's 1,000 persons appeared to have been killed.

With the train loads of injured that continue to arrive in Rome, additional details of the horror come in, all tending to confirm earlier estimates of the tremendous loss of life. Reports indicate that next to Avezzano the towns to suffer most are Pescara with 4,500 victims; Paterno, with 1,000 dead, and Caserta with 600 of its population completely wiped out. All are near Avezzano.

Flood Horror Menaces.
The horror of a possible flood added to famine and suffering from cold, exists in the neighborhood of the epicenter, which has been completely inundated by a landslide. Soldiers and civilians are working desperately to clear the canal.

It seems to be definitely established that the present earthquake will not be the last of the series in 1915. In the number of deaths the percentage of casualties in proportion to the population affected appears to be much higher, due to the fact that the destruction of buildings that was almost universal throughout the stricken district. Pescara had 7,483 dead and 17,176 injured. Pescara reports indicate 2,000 dead and 10,000 injured. The only buildings not leveled by the earthquake were the few made with reinforced concrete.

A correspondent of the Monitore reports that the number of dead in the stricken zone, telegraphed in his paper that excluding Avezzano and a number of other villages the number of dead will reach 10,000, the number of the total number of dead is 30,000.

London, Jan. 15.—Special dispatches received here from Rome say that the casualties in earthquake zone are today estimated at 30,000. Further reports undoubtedly will increase this number. In a number of towns the population has not yet been destroyed and the government has not yet heard from many mountain towns.

The hundreds of persons were crushed to death in a church at Avezzano, which was intended as a shelter for the victims of the earthquake. The church of San Giovanni was totally destroyed and the population today homeless. Soldiers searching a church in Soriano found bodies of twenty men crushed to death in the act of seeking refuge.

A dispatch given out in the Central zone describes the situation in the stricken district as terrible. Although the population in this district occupied in the hills, many of them are suffering from cold and hunger. The destruction of the roads interferes seriously with the sending of relief and thousands of persons are suffering from lack of food.

The director of the observatory at Capri declared yesterday that the earthquake of January 13 was twice as strong as the quake which destroyed Pompeii.

Soldiers Aid in Relief.
Jan. 15.—Rome and relief work is being pushed with feverish haste in the earthquake stricken district. Thousands of soldiers are being sent out to work digging for the buried and caring for the survivors.

The food of the latter, of whom there are thousands upon thousands, is being distributed by the king's army and the people from the king's army are doing all possible to relieve the situation. The cold weather, which continues, adds to the terrible suffering, and temporary buildings of the army are being erected in all possible haste to house the homeless.

The number of dead is still only estimated, but from what is known it is believed that at least 20,000 perished, and that number was increased by 5,000 dead at Pescara and 5,000 at Caserta, and that at Avezzano only 150 persons were saved out of a population of 2,000. At Marsi the dead number 1,000. Most of the survivors there are injured and they are suffering from lack of food and lack of care.

Lonely Grow.
Rome, Jan. 15.—The Monitore declared that there are no fewer than 5,000 dead at Pescara and 5,000 at Caserta, and that at Avezzano only 150 persons were saved out of a population of 2,000. At Marsi the dead number 1,000. Most of the survivors there are injured and they are suffering from lack of food and lack of care.

At Marsi-de-Albe one-fourth of the population has been killed and there is no hope to do any work of rescue or save for the survivors.

FAMOUS COLUMN OF MARCUS AURELIUS TWISTED BY QUAKE

The telegraph reads: "The Marsia diocese has been transformed into a great cemetery. Avezzano, Capelle and Paterno razed, and almost all inhabitants dead. Ecclesiastic, some dead, some wounded. A few villages in the diocese are uninhabited, but generally desolation reigns. It is an immense and distressing catastrophe."

The Pope in reply to this information wired: "Being the father of all the faithful, but first of the unfortunate, I am pierced with grief by this immense misfortune."

"I extend my arms to my unhappy children and am praying for peace for the dead and comfort for survivors." More wounded have been brought to the Santa Maria Hospital, which is close to the Vatican. The Pope again visited the patients there to comfort them. "To each he gave a medal."

American Visits Avezzano.
Colonel George M. Dunn, the American military attaché, motored to Avezzano and returned from that place last night. In speaking of what he had seen he said: "I never dreamed of such a horrible situation. The whole town is ruined, as every house is down and the remains remain intact. Church, palaces and dwellings are crumbled to the ground. What once were streets are now filled with debris to the height of six or seven feet. Within a short time the work of rescue will be useless, as those buried under the ruins will be dead. The entire population is extinguished, the people being either dead or wounded in hospitals."

Death Lists Four In.
Avezzano, Jan. 15.—Official reports regarding the extent of the earthquake disaster are now being received by the authorities. They concern towns and villages in the district in which Avezzano is located, and thus are as follows:

Paterno, completely destroyed except one house; 1,000 dead out of 5,800 inhabitants.
San Paolo, almost totally destroyed; 600 dead out of 2,000 inhabitants.
Scurolo destroyed; number of victims not yet ascertained.
Villa Laga, 25 dead and 29 wounded.
Fratino, near Seanno, 200 dead, 60 wounded.
Ponoli, 4 dead, 10 wounded.
Pescina, 4 dead, 11 wounded.
Barone, 9 dead, 20 wounded.
Villa Laga, 25 dead, 29 wounded.

Duke of Abruzzi at Scene.
The Duke of Abruzzi arrived here last night and inspected the work of rescue. He visited every spot and gave orders for the relief of the victims. He expressed the intention of visiting all the villages that had suffered, some of which are still cut off from communication. At an instance, he went to the town of Pescara, where many persons are buried in the wreckage of houses and up to the present time fifteen bodies have been taken out and fifteen injured persons rescued.

A thrilling episode of the earthquake happened Friday at Capelle, just north of Avezzano, which village is in ruins. Within the walls of the castle, where the soldiers heard strange cries and led by the sound reached a spot where they found a woman buried under the debris with a new born child. Both were extremely alive and uninjured, and are doing well.

A captain of carabinieri, who was among the rescuers, asked to be the godfather of the child, and suggested that the boy be called Francesco Molino, meaning a small earthquake.

4,500 Dead at Pescara.
The catastrophe at Pescara, south-east of Avezzano, is growing in gravity. The victims, according to reports, received from there, now number 4,500. The whole village of Molio de Marsi is reported destroyed. The number of victims there is not yet known. At Collesoma there are 24 dead.

Estimate 35,000 Dead.
Paris, Jan. 15.—The correspondent of the Bazar in Rome wires that he believes officially that 35,000 persons were killed and 45,000 injured in the earthquake. Newspaper reports from Rome have been that the great mortality is attributable to the method of dry construction employed in the affected regions, the houses being piled upon each other without mortar. The only buildings which escaped total destruction were modern houses built of reinforced concrete. The serious landslide which occurred at Monte Corvino-Rotondo, which sent masses of earth from the mountain down into the Fucino basin, damming that stream, threatens to add a flood to the other calamities in the region. Gauges of men are working strenuously to remove the obstruction.

Tragic Details.
Avezzano, Jan. 15.—Tragic reports are coming in from the surrounding villages isolated by the earthquake. At Lunamatelli, five miles distant, the dead are estimated to number 300. Another village, less than 100 houses away, and known as the village of the sun, which was frequented by Emperor Vespasian 2,000 years ago, suffered the same fate as Avezzano. It is impossible even to approximately estimate the number of dead or wounded there.

Lonely Grow.
Rome, Jan. 15.—The Monitore declared that there are no fewer than 5,000 dead at Pescara and 5,000 at Caserta, and that at Avezzano only 150 persons were saved out of a population of 2,000. At Marsi the dead number 1,000. Most of the survivors there are injured and they are suffering from lack of food and lack of care.

At Marsi-de-Albe one-fourth of the population has been killed and there is no hope to do any work of rescue or save for the survivors.

The Italian earthquake took its heaviest toll in the interior town of Avezzano. It is estimated that in this town and vicinity 15,000 perished. Nearly all the civic officials of Avezzano, including the mayor, the under prefect, the judges, the commander of the carabinieri, parish priests, monks and nuns perished. The only notable person who survived was the head of the police. The city is now a heap of ruins.

President Orders Attorney General to Investigate if There Has Been a Law Violation.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 15.—President Wilson today directed Attorney General Gregory to investigate whether there had been any violation of law in the rise of prices of wheat and flour.

The department of commerce probably will be asked by the president to furnish information showing what degree of increase in export of wheat and flour followed the outbreak of the European war.

City officials, including the members of the commission and City Engineer C. V. Kerch, yesterday afternoon held a conference at the city hall for the letting of the contract for the purchase of 750 barrels of cement for city construction work. The contract price dealers were solicited and the contract will be awarded to the lowest bidder as soon as the remaining bids are received. The officials hoped to materially reduce the contract price over that paid last year, effecting an important saving.

During the summer a vast amount of cement construction work is being planned. The work of continuing the Pleasant street, thirty-six inch sewer off Pleasant street and the extension of the Oakland avenue sewer to the river from Main street and from Wisconsin to Jackson street, will be done this summer. The Pleasant street sewer will be continued off Chatham street to the river on Pine street.

While the paving plans were not discussed by the officials at the meeting yesterday, considerable work is being done by the city engineer's commission believe that to attempt to pave Milton avenue this year with brick or a permanent material would be unwise because of the fact that the city is not in a position to pay for the same.

Plans have been prepared for a project of widening the street on Franklin street both brick and concrete are being advanced as the logical type of pavement for this street.

WEATHER MAN PROVES MOST FICKLE TODAY

"Watch Your Step" During Season of Icy Sidewalks—Fear Freeze-up After Rain Today.

"Watch Your Step" was an excellent slogan to take cognizance of throughout today. Icy sidewalks with the rain, which fell during the morning and early afternoon make matters difficult for pedestrians.

The weather man promised rain or snow for this afternoon and tonight and also cold weather after supper. Sunday he says will be unsettled and colder with snow in the east and north portions. An east wind will shift to a northwest gale.

With the ground frozen to a depth of two or three feet it is not thought that the excess water will find enough opportunity to soak into the ground. If the weather man's prediction is correct and zero weather comes tomorrow, the city will necessarily have to call into action again his said bucket brigade.

Drivers who failed to change over from sleds to wheeled vehicles this morning found traveling quite hard in the down town section where the water had washed nearly all the snow away, leaving the collected dirt and refuse covering the icy foundation.

Nearly all the street cars out of the river below the Fourth avenue bridge. Local ice dealers are congratulating themselves on the opportunity afforded to secure this year's crop before the present weather and the efforts of Superintendent of Streets, P. J. Goodman, in the opening and cleaning of the gutters, and drainage system came in good stead, for no serious trouble at the time of the ice in carrying off the flood of water. The sewers proved able to accommodate the vast amount of water preventing the flooding of the streets.

Two Directors of Rod and Gun Club Appointed to Attend Meeting of State Association.

Game Warden W. P. Mason and F. E. Green were appointed by the directors of the Rock County Rod and Gun club at their meeting held at the city hall last evening to represent the local organization at the meeting of the state association, which is to be held at Madison on the twenty-first of this month. It is the purpose of the association to co-operate in the work of seeking favorable legislation during the present session for game protection and propagation.

Rock county members of the sportsmen's association will oppose the bill to legalize setting of traps in Lake Koshong and seek to prevent its passage, the feeling here being quite intense against the proposed measure. It is understood the association men will make attempts to have the funds gained from licenses, fines and penalties for court prosecutions and from the sale of rough fish, appropriated to the fish and game department instead of being spent by the state on highways.

The general feeling of the club has been that the money should be spent on game and fish propagation since it is obtained from the fish field. They also seek to consolidate the state fish commission with the game warden's department to insure better co-operation.

The applications for fish fry for the season of 1915 were signed by the directors and what appointment this county will receive will be announced in a report made out later by the fish and game department. The list summarized the following:

Germany, 47; England, 31; France, Japan and Austria, 5 each; Russia, 4; Turkey, 2.

War at a Glance

Seldom since the beginning of operations in the east has the military situation been so uncertain as at the present. Several independent movements each with the possibility of vital consequences are in progress simultaneously.

The latest phase of the situation, the advance of a new Russian army against West Prussia, in connection with the movement of the forces that have invaded East Prussia is believed in London to threaten the German forces in Central Poland. The Russian general staff is convinced that the Germans west and southwest of Warsaw have determined on a general offensive movement.

Further south the German troops have reinforced the Austrians for a drive at the Russians, designed to relieve Bukovina and northern Hungary from further invasion.

Fighting during the last few days, while violent at times, has been of a local character. The Austrian army reports that in a violent artillery contest along the Danajec river, in Galicia, several Russian batteries were silenced.

On the western battlefield the allies and the Germans concentrated their efforts in the Aisne regions. Following their defeat near Soissons the French have fallen back toward new positions, and are struggling to stay the German advance.

The Turkish military authorities are reported to have decided to attempt an invasion of Egypt. Such an expedition will be a most hazardous one on account of the sandy waste which the invading army will have to cross. The British forces have again invaded the Lys the Germans recaptured they captured Swakopmund, German southwest Africa.

The fury of the battle along the Aisne has spent itself and the Germans are making no effort to extend the gains they won over the French.

Toward the north end of the line south of the German re-occupied trenches previously captured by the allies, as is admitted in the French statement.

The French assert that they won definite advances in artillery fighting and compelled the Germans to evacuate trenches near Clermont.

U. S. Consul Prepared Plans for Occupation and Prevention of Ruin and Bloodshed.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Jan. 15.—The entrance of Turkish troops into the Persian city of Tabriz, several days ago, was warmly welcomed by the Persians and took place in accordance with plans previously arranged between the American consul, Gordon Paddock, who co-operated with the deputy governor, and the commander of the Turkish forces.

All the Russians in Tabriz, including the consul, had previously withdrawn from the city in order to avoid a conflict.

An official telegram from the Tehran government conveying the above information, was received in London. This message adds that Persia was neither prepared, nor willing to oppose either side in this conflict, but that she would remain strictly neutral.

Evacuate Towns.

These towns, however, have not as yet been occupied by the allies.

IMPORTANT CHANGES SHOW DEVELOPMENTS IN WAR SITUATION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Jan. 16.—Out of the state of virtual deadlock which for weeks existed in the east and west, there have sprung during the past few days military events of more importance than followers of the war expected at this time. They are chiefly: Russian offensive toward new points on the frontiers of East Prussia, and Posen; the fighting at Soissons; the expected Turkish advance on Egypt, and the plan for a renewal of attacks on Serbia by combined Austro-German forces.

No Gain Near Warsaw.
To the west of Warsaw large German forces are still concentrated, but they are gaining little ground, and it is thought likely that the fighting which will develop as a result of the new Russian movement may for the time being overshadow the previous battle for the Polish capital. It is even suggested that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, held in check along the Bzura and Rawka rivers, is about to initiate a fresh movement of German troops either from Thorn or from East Prussia, and that the Russian advance toward the German frontier is intended to distract the attention of the British press with unusual candor concedes that the Germans were victors in the recent fighting near Soissons, remarking that it is a relief from the customary contradictions to find official communications in agreement in so many important points.

Kaiser Inspires Troops.
Military writers speculating as to the reason for Emperor William's presence at the front during the fighting near Soissons, suggests that General Von Kuick either "requested" the emperor to come and inspire enthusiasm among attacking troops, or else felt so sure of his ability to force back the French over the river that he desired to have the emperor witness the victory.

A third theory is that Emperor William is visiting various points along the western front feeling out the situation with a view to selecting the most likely spot for an attempt to break through in the spring.

Denies Loss.
The official announcement given out in Berlin yesterday relating the capture of 5,000 French troops at Soissons, which was accompanied by the loss of 4,000 to 5,000 French dead, was found after the battle, concludes with the unusual assertion: "This is the truth." A wireless dispatch from Berlin copied in London categorically denied these German figures. It says the French troops engaged in the Soissons battle were less than three brigades, and that consequently the Berlin figures cannot be correct.

Quiet Today.
Berlin, Jan. 16.—After several days of violent encounters the fighting near Soissons has virtually ceased. Nowhere else along the front has the battle line in any marked activity. Small successes have been won by the Germans in the Argonne and north of Verdun. The front of the German official communication issued today.

Make No Reference.
Paris, Jan. 16.—The French official statement given out in Paris this afternoon makes no specific reference to the recent heavy fighting north of Soissons. Most of the activity of yesterday seems to have been on the part of artillery and in this the French claim successes. There were infantry engagements near Notre Dame de Lorette, near Flirey and at a point in the Vosges.

Evacuate Towns.
Amsterdam, Jan. 15.—The correspondent at Ostend of the Tids says that the Germans have evacuated all the coast towns and villages as far north as Mariakerke, which is north of Nieuport, Westende and Middlekerke, and three miles southwest of Ostend. These towns, however, have not as yet been occupied by the allies.

It's Prepaid. Take It

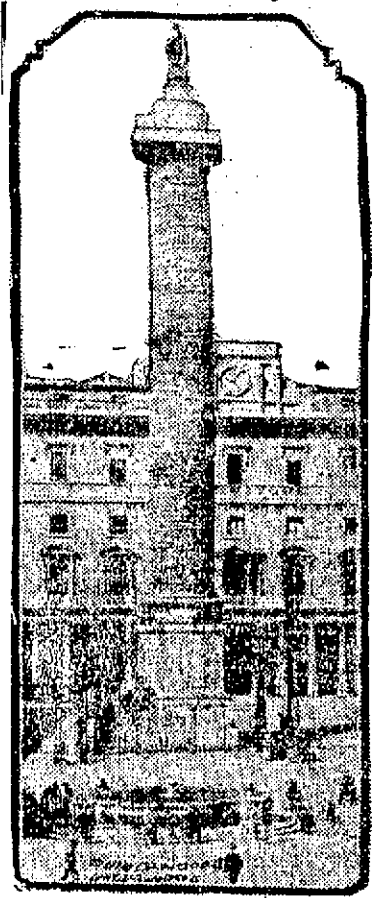

Mr. Merchant, if some one sent you a package of prepaid goods, would you take the trouble to go to the express office and get it?

Of course you would. You have on your shelves certain goods of well known brands.

When the manufacturer of one of these brands comes into this paper with his advertisement he is literally expressing you money.

He is making a demand for goods, the sale of which means profit to you.

Is it any more than ordinary sense to try and push these goods to show them in your windows and let the public know you have them?

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
San Antonio, Texas, Jan. 15.—Although her case is set for trial February 1, it is probable Miss Hoda Burges will not be able to appear in court on that date and answer to the charge of killing Otto Koehler, millionaire brewer, last November. She had been brooding over the crime and it is feared she may lose her mind.

"If I could only die!" is her constant wish.

"Death to me would be the greatest relief for this world holds nothing more for me," she said in a recent statement.

Immediately after the killing of Koehler, Miss Burges attempted to end her own life by cutting her wrist with a sharp case-knife, but the timely arrival of a doctor saved her. She was found kneeling over Koehler's body. The tragedy occurred in her bedroom. It is said that Koehler's invalid wife is still unacquainted with the facts of her husband's death.

BOB ACRES WRITES OF THE LEGISLATURE

COMMENTS ON WHITTET ELECTION AS BREAKER FAVORABLY.

APPROVES OF MESSAGE

I do not know just what the element of the term "Bob Acres" has to do with it, but I have often questioned the advisability of continuing writing them, but I am told that some people read them and have been helped by them, while others are not as well satisfied and still read them. I have not tried to enter in the Wisconsin column, but I do not believe that I can help to explain the political situation, I am at your service.

There is an old saying that Rome was not built in a day, and that it takes time to build a state, but still I am free to confess that I am well satisfied with the progress thus far made in electing Emanuel Phillips as governor, and free to confess that I am well satisfied with the progress thus far made in electing Emanuel Phillips as governor.

never in the history of the Wisconsin politics are you going to see the eleven most clearly displayed than in the state senate where the nine La Follette members hold the balance of power and will wield it to their hearts' content. It is just a good example of what we may expect their attitude on referring to go into the referendum next June. During the time they were in a majority and then retreating to a minority by that caucus decision when it came to a vote in the organization of the senate.

The divine punishment of hypocrisy is fatigue. Those, in Shakespeare's fine simile, whose hearts are all as false as stairs of sand, must really have much of that exhausted sensation that comes of walking through sand when it is loose and deep. All non-perishable goods, supplies, as canned goods, flour, wheat, peas, beans, etc., new blankets and clothing will be transported free by the commission. Stations have been established in all sections of the United States, and from these are forwarded to Philadelphia and New York for transportation across the sea to Belgium. From Janesville the parcel post packages should be addressed to A. D. Campbell at Milwaukee, the nearest collection point for this territory, with postage prepaid if the package weighs over twenty cents.

The postage will be returned to the sender if there is written in the upper right hand corner the letter "R" on the address side of the special shipping tag furnished for such relief shipments. If the "R" does not appear on the tag the committee will take the omission to mean that they are not to return the money for postage, but are to use the same in purchasing more food stuffs and clothing for the general cause.

The address side of the tag should be worded as follows: "The Commission for Relief in Belgium, care A. D. Campbell, Milwaukee, Wis."

The name of the donor should appear on the reverse side of the tag, together with his postoffice address and a statement of the contents, their weight and their value.

A poster explaining the new feature will be found in the federal building lobby over the writing shelf at the main entrance on centering. Already inquiries have been quite a number of several parcels have been forwarded, and in most cases it is noticeable that the attached card did not bear the letter "R" in the upper right hand corner of the Milwaukee address side. It was evidently meant that the commission was to use this for the further purchasing of food and clothing.

Postmaster Cunningham announces that any question regarding the mailing of packages to the Relief Commission will be gladly answered by post-office employees.

The bureau established by the Gazette to collect money by subscription for the demoralized little country is still working along lines as heretofore. Advertisers are coming in slowly, and all donations will be most heartily thanked. Another check will be mailed shortly to the Belgian Minister at Washington.

LEAVE WOUNDED MEN BETWEEN TWO FIRES

Since Hostilities Become a Siege Fewer Soldiers Killed or Wounded—Trouble in Reaching Wounded.

(Correspondence Associated Press) Paris, December 16.—Since the hostilities settled down to a siege along the rivers and canals of the north, the average number of casualties per day seems to have lessened. But the work of the ambulance department, in all the more hazardous men who fell in pitched battles were often lost in concealed places, but what is worse now is that they often lie in plain sight obliged to wait for hours, sometimes for days before it is possible for their comrades to pick them up. It is often too late.

When a man is wounded in the trenches he is able to get back to the field hospital, if he can walk; if not he must wait until night because the trenches are so narrow that the stretcher bearers cannot carry a wounded man through them; he must be lifted out and carried back above ground.

When a charge is made between the lines of trenches and proves to be unsuccessful, the wounded of course must be left; in too many cases they are actually sacrificed and their comrades obliged to see them lying helplessly between two fires. Sometimes they see them raise a hand and occasionally they hear their despairing cries, but to attempt to save them is out of the question.

Cases have been reported in which men charging against barbed-wire defenses and wounded in the attempt have been left hanging in the tangled wires.

The chaplain of a French regiment, describing the work of the ambulance corps after a great battle, says: "We had a long evening tour to make as we were obliged to visit the advance posts of Ronchies, Emonville and Gerbevillers. Without lanterns, in order not to betray our position we advanced silently over roads gashed by shells and deeply rutted by heavy artillery. From the hill tops we saw a ruddy glow from burning villages.

Here and there were flashes of light followed by the explosions of shells and through the sky visible furrows of fire. It was all that revealed the sinister presence of hostile armies. The silence was impressive at times cut only by the cawing of crows and the reports of artillery.

"We found Ronchies deserted; ruined; only a few houses still standing and they were burning. Ronchies was unrecognizable. We found thirty wounded but we could take only ten of the worst.

"The road to Gerbevillers, bordered by tall poplars, runs along the Prussian lines; in daylight we should have been wiped out. It was nearly midnight when we reached the entrance to the village, the theatre of deadly conflicts for ten days.

"The little hospital there seemed asylum in hell; alone it stood in the midst of the collapsed town, saved thanks to the presence of wounded Germans. Built to accommodate thirty, it sheltered 130 and reeked with the odor of blood, powder and drugs; we could take only thirty of the most serious cases. The task of sorting them out was heartrending; they were all in such sore need. As we started to the shells began to fall again thick and fast all around us and between the roaring crashes we heard the groans and supplications of the wounded in the ambulance behind; one crying constantly for mother."

BERLIN HOSPITALS RIVAL FOR WORST WOUNDED MAN.

Berlin, Jan. 16.—There is a friendly rivalry among the wounded in the Berlin hospitals for the distinction of having been the worst shot up man in the war. One who claims 26 wounds holds the present record, but Horst Pfeiffer is envied for his remarkable combination of peril and luck.

Near Dixmude he received an order which he was to take on his bicycle to the firing line. He was hit eight times and dropped off into a ditch at the side of the road, but succeeded nevertheless in handing his message to another soldier who passed through the upper jaw, another through the chin, one through the bone of the right arm, and one struck his helmet and his toes. His comrades finally succeeded in rescuing him from his dangerous position, and sent him to Berlin where he has been awarded an Iron cross.

SERBIA FAST IN WINTER'S GRIP; SOLDIERS SUFFER HARDSHIPS

These pictures, which have just been received from Serbia, show how that little country is in the grip of winter as well as war. Upper photo shows sentinel doing guard duty at a commissary post of the Serbian army during a raging storm. Lower photo shows Serbians in a hastily constructed trench which they have just captured from the Austrians. In spite of a biting frost and deep snow the men are seen prepared to repel any counter attack of the enemy.

VAST POSSIBILITIES IN SLEEPING EMPIRE

Land of the Turk Is Rich in Natural Resources—People Have Many Laudable Traits.

Constantinople, metropolis and capital of the Turk, and Mecca, the sacred city and lodestone of Mohammedan religious life, are, probably, the two most definite conceptions of the westerner concerning the Ottoman Empire. He has thought of the dome-and-minaret-sprinkled city of Golden Horn as one whose glories were past, as one fevered through and through with the disease of mismanagement, ignorance, and kismet-lethargy. He has thought of it as the husk of a once mighty and brilliant city.

There are other elements and other people in the wide sweep of Ottoman power, however. In a careful consideration of Asiatic Turkey, prepared by Stephen van Rensselaer Trowbridge for the National Geographic society, the writer advises us to remember that the individual Turk possesses many admirable qualities of hospitality, courage and fidelity, that in many parts of the Ottoman lands in Asia strong physiques are developed by rugged country and a bracing climate and strong characters as well. He continues:

Although still in the dark ages as regards science, although under the handicap of a religion which runs athwart all our modern civilization, although well-nigh ruined by the vicious despotism of the Red Sultan, Abdul-Hamid; although fanatical and ruthless toward his Armenian and Syrian subjects, yet it is my strong conviction that the Turk has in him good material for manhood. The qualities of fortitude and friendship are not in his heart; his conscience of God is in his heart; wherever he goes and whatever he does. Among the peasantry especially there is a Spartan spirit of endurance which commands admiration.

West seldom think of the lands in Asia in connection with the Ottoman nation is, Mr. Trowbridge indicates, because all fruitful, historic territory has slept a sleep of centuries under Turkish administration. Constantinople has been the sole point of contact for a waking outside world. "In the provinces the Turks have built no monuments which will abide," he says. "Their cities are the sole monuments of their civilization. They have served centuries of occupation, have served the demolition of many stately ruins of ancient architecture; but as for constructive work, not even roads and bridges have been built."

Yet, according to this writer, all forms of wealth, the basis for a national life of vital world-histories, are within these Ottoman lands. There are inexhaustible stores of wonderful cedar forests, famous Lebanon cedars, with their trunks from 50 to 80 feet in height and their crowns often more than 20 feet. With proper development, no richer farming or grazing lands are to be found than within this same empire, including those fertile valleys where civilization was cradled. Exports state that the Mesopotamian plain, properly irrigated, would produce a substantial share of the world's cotton. Here the silk worm industry flourishes, and among the most luscious tropical fruits are grown. In this century, wooden plows are used and grain is stamped from the ear.

The mineral resources of this sleeping empire have not been explored. However, rich copper mines are known in parts of the Taurus, outcroppings of coal have been found, and oil fields have been discovered near Bagdad.

Modern life is just beginning to seep through. American missionaries have brought much of it. The undeveloped natives, some more primitive than were those who fought under the last Darius against Alexander, sleepers in the richest of all the world's historical sepulchres are just awakening to the demands of a more advanced century to a knowledge of the needs of present-day transportation methods, of steel, farm implements and machinery, of gas engines, of sewing machines, of factory equipment, and of electric installation. Coarse cloth and wheat for themselves and barley for their horses has hitherto stood for plenty.

FORTY TONS OF PEAS ORDERED BY BELGIANS FROM WISCONSIN FIRM.

(Special to the Gazette.) Manitowish, Wis., Jan. 16.—If Manitowish county has anything to say about it, the Belgian sufferers are going to have soup with their meals. Peas, at that.

The Wisconsin Pea Cannery's company has filed an order for 40 tons of peas to be used in making soup for the Belgians. The order was given by the Belgian relief committee.

RUSSIA WILL BUILD LINE IN MONGOLIA

(Correspondence Associated Press) Peking, December 16.—The Russian legation has affirmed to the Associated Press correspondent here the truth of the reported Russian agreement with Mongolia as to the construction of railways in that country, hitherto untraversed by steel.

The terms of the agreement are interesting to those who foresee, among other constructions, that of a line across the Gobi Desert connecting Kulgan, where the Chinese railway reaches the Great Wall of China, with the Trans-Siberian route somewhere west of Lake Baikal. Such a junction would put Europe even two days nearer to Peking, which can now be reached from Paris in normal times in less than thirteen days.

Among Chinese officials, who had not ceased to hope that the nominal suzerainty which China continues to hold over Mongolia would prevent the negotiation of such an agreement without ratification of the Chinese Government, the knowledge that such an agreement has been concluded causes considerable annoyance. The leading Chinese paper in Peking says that "if the agreement is a fact it will, of course, be submitted to the Tripartite Conference," meaning that of Mongolia, Russia and China.

The Russian legation says the agreement is a fact, and that by its terms, while the Russian Government recognizes the permanent right of the Mongolian government to build railways within its own territory, the Russian and Mongolian governments shall consult each other upon the matter, so that the lines will benefit both countries.

As to the poverty of the nation of tent-dwelling Mongols precludes the possibility of their building their own railways, it is said, the agreement binds the Mongolian government to Russia in railway matters.

Mongolia may build railways with Mongolian capital without consulting Russia. "But should the Mongolian Government concede such rights to other countries, the Mongolian government, for the sake of friendly relations with Russia, should discuss the project with the Russian Government before the former makes the actual concession." In order to ascertain whether the projected line or lines would jeopardize Russian interests from an economical or strategic standpoint.

In case the construction of the railways is financed by the Russian Government, the Mongolian, or by private persons, the Russian Government will render adequate help to the Mongolian government.

HOLD DAILY PRAYER SERVICES IN BERLIN

Services in Most of Berlin Churches Held at Nine O'clock in the Evening.

(Correspondence Associated Press) Berlin, December 16.—The "war prayer hour" has become a feature of the capital's daily life. It is one of those institutions of the war whose inauguration nobody noticed in the first excitement, but which soon then have forced the attention of the public by virtue of being helpful. The "war prayer hour" is at nine every evening, and is held in most of the churches of Berlin.

The people who attend the "hour" make a most interesting crowd, which could not be better described than was done by one of the feuilletonists of the Vossische Zeitung:

"Over the maze of streets hangs a heavy and wet evening, in whose mists the street lamps look like so many dying stars surrounded by sheafs of red rays. Under them moves a busy crowd and hustling traffic—not quite so large as at other times. The stream of humanity on the sidewalk seems indefatigable—inexhaustible. They are the daily habits of soldiers who carry arms in white and black slings, officers in smart city uniforms, and women."

"Over it all breaks of a sudden the deep, metallic voice of the church bells, calling upon man to look from the things on earth to those above. It is nine—the hour of the war prayer."

Through the main portal of the church the crowd begins to enter—large families, mostly and more, and then a venerable couple. But through the small side doors enter hundreds of women—the timid, the lonely, the religious in the pompous church interior, the glistering mosaics and the other stony things. But the senses establish that the church is crowded long before it is time for the service to commence—crowded with those who seek comfort and consolation.

"The clock strikes nine—the war prayer hour has come. Of a sudden the lights in the vaults above flash up, filling the interior with a light as strong as that of day. And with this comes the mighty flood of the organ, rising and rising until it has reached a sublime and overwhelming volume in 'Gloria be Thou God on High.'"

"Light floods the church. In it faces and expressions may be studied. It is surprising, though easily explained, that three-quarters of those present are women. There are old and wrinkled mothers; pale and thin girls, young and beautiful women. And each of them brought her own burden. There is the mother who trembles for her son, the wife who fears for the life companion and the father, and the girl who prays for the future husband."

"The man in the pulpit utters kind and timely words, and when the organ peals forth, 'We come before Thee With Prayer,' they all answer with resignation and the decision to supreme. When the last tones of the organ die, it is no longer fear, the strong senses, but reference and consolation."

Women, women, nothing but women. Out on the fields of the enemy fights a united people of brothers, and here within cold walls suffers, so it appears, a united people of sisters.

"Out on the street they are all strangers to one another. Here in the house of God they stand near to one another. In the silent through beat a common misery and a common longing for consolation and a lessening of their burden. There is the mother who trembles for her son, the wife who fears for the life companion and the father, and the girl who prays for the future husband."

"The man in the pulpit utters kind and timely words, and when the organ peals forth, 'We come before Thee With Prayer,' they all answer with resignation and the decision to supreme. When the last tones of the organ die, it is no longer fear, the strong senses, but reference and consolation."

Money in Kangaroo Raising. In Australia kangaroo farming is an important industry. The hides are valuable, and the tendons are the best known to surgeons for sewing up wounds, and especially for holding broken bones together, being much finer and tougher than catgut.

She Is Not Yet Extinct. What has become of the old-fashioned mother who thought that her small son was destined to become a great musician because he could get a tune out of a mouth organ?—Ex-change.

False Silence. Remember there is a false silence which would be as shameful as any falseness of speech.—William R. Richards.

Whether the German military authorities in Belgium have arrested Cardinal Mercier, archbishop of Malines, has been one of the most generally discussed features of the war during the past few days. According to reports from London, the prelate was arrested because of a pastoral letter he wrote advising the Belgians against submitting to German authority. The German government has officially denied that the cardinal is under arrest.

GERMANS RULE CITY WITH MAILED FIST

Escape Says Invaders Enforce Harsh Measures Regarding Provisions and Taxes in Captured Towns.

(Correspondence Associated Press) Paris, December 16.—According to a prominent manufacturer at Maubeuge who escaped before the Germans occupied the town but who says he has received news through underground channels, the population is in sore straits; those of limited means being unable to pay the exact prices the Germans demand for provisions; some even being reduced to taking remains of the soldiers' repasts.

The curfew rings at six o'clock; anyone found out after that is considered as spying.

Six hostages are required to insure a special police service and serve as intermediaries. These hostages are changed each week and are warned if they do not render exact justice to the Germans they will be shot.

There is neither salt, nor burning oil in the town. Coal is becoming scarce. Beans cost the equivalent of twenty cents a pint. Half a pound of bread is served to each of the inhabitants each day; other provisions being reserved to the Germans excepting certain things the army sells to the population at extraordinary prices.

The cafés and tobacconists shops have been taken over by the military authorities and clerks brought from Germany to run them.

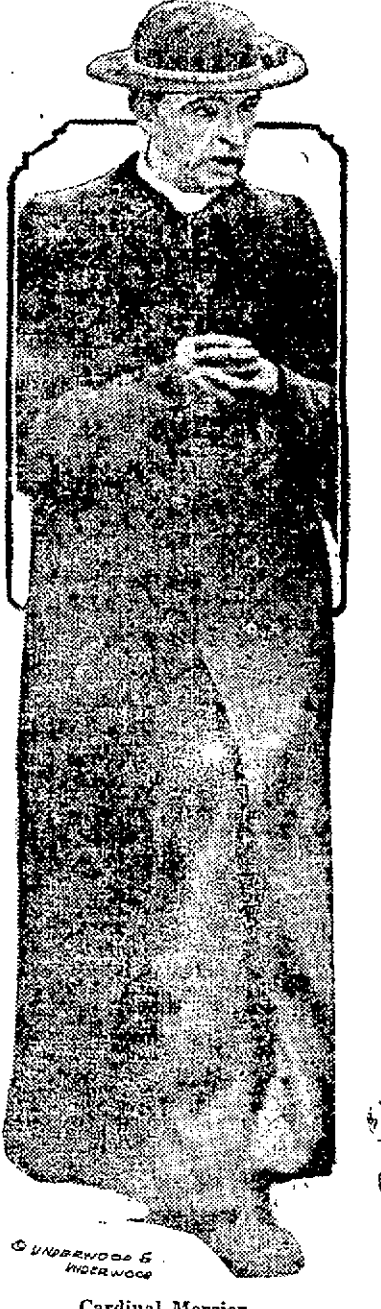

Taxes are regularly collected by German fiscal agents, part of the proceeds being considered government revenue and part being attributed to relief of the population.

The street railroads are in operation for the benefit of the general public but the railroads are reserved to the German troops and it is asserted that the inhabitants on pain of death, are forbidden to watch the passing trains. The reason for this is said to be the use of the Maubeuge line for the removal of the dead from the battle lines along the canals of Belgium and France. The Germans said forty-two trains with such loads passed Maubeuge in one day.

All the forts of the camp of Maubeuge, he says, have been blown up and all the roads that might serve an army advancing from the south have been blocked.

Most of the important factories of Maubeuge, excepting those where soldiers are quartered have been dismantled and the installations shipped away.

KING PETER IDOL OF HIS COUNTRYMEN

King Peter leaving headquarters of the Serbian general staff.

King Peter of Serbia is today as never before the idol of his countrymen. When the Austrians had occupied Belgrade and had practically taken possession of the entire country it was left to King Peter to revive the fallen spirits of his men. With grim determination he set out after the Austrians, in spite of the fact that he had been under the care of his physicians very recently, and after a few sharp and decisive battles the Austrians were driven out of the country and were forced to give up Belgrade.

MADISON GIRLS TAUGHT HOW TO BUY MATERIALS.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 16—You've seen your mother pick up a piece of cloth in the drygoods store, tear out a thread, bite it meditatively, run her thumb along the goods, and so sundry other things that caused you much wonderment and increased your respect for her as a profound judge of all things, animate and inanimate. She was submitting the cloth of various tests to ascertain if it were "pure."

They aren't doing that in the Madison continuation schools. Girls are being taught scientifically how to judge and buy materials intelligently. They are instructed as to the history of cloth, service of fibers, process of manufacture, substitutes, the proper use of cotton, wool, silk or linen, and a comparison of width and prices of cloth.

Never Tried It. "Oh, Mildred," cried one young lady meeting a school friend of some two summers past, "I've heard the greatest piece of news. Can you keep a secret?" "I don't know," said the friend. "I never tried it. What is it?"
